Sequoia Players Working On Play

As their first production this year, Sequoia Players will present "Whistling in the Dark", a comedy melodrama by Laurence Gross and Edward Childs Carpenter, in the Sequoia Union high school auditorium on October 4 at 8:00 p. m The production will be directed by C. A. van Patten, dramatic coach.

The comedy is a pleasing one full of laughs and thrills and will be highly amusing to the audience, according to the director. A telented cast of characters has been chosen to fill the roles of this comic three act play, and rehearsals are now underway.

Russell Newman, hero of the production, is certain to be an amusing character as a writer of detective stories. Charlotte Morisette will play the part of the heroine, Toby Manuren, the fiancee of Wallace Porter. Jack Dillon, leader of a notoreious Dillon gang will be played by Robert Bettencourt. Dillon's hight hand man, Joe Salvatore, was the roll given to Joe Maxwell. George McCarron will play the part of Carlie Show, an evil looking man who would rather kill than eat. Llody Martin will take the part of Slim Scranton an unpleasant gangster while the role of Herman Lefkowitz, a dapper jewish durggst and a carrier of narcotics, will be done by Haskell Nash, Adalene Bowman will play the part of the telephone operator.

The cast is working daily on the thrilling plot of the experiences of Wallace Porter, the hero who had accidentally ran into a band of criminals and was forced by the leader to invent a flawless plot by which they could do away with the crime commissioner or be murdered by these men with his fiancee, Toby Van Buren. The plot is solved but the results are the big events in the gangster melodrama.

Old Age Pensions May Be Increased by County

Because there will be no federal funds for some time to help counties bear the burden of increased old age pensions, county governments will be allowed to increase their old age pension budgets 100 per cent, announces the Board of Equalization.

Thus the Board has waived the 5 per cent budget increase law in this one instance, and only because of defeat of the deficiency bill in Congress. Funds were provided in this measure to match state and county old age pension money. California's new old age pension law, in which maximum pensions will be $35 a month and in which the age requirement was dropped from 70 to 65 years, will cost $17,000,000 annually.

Fred E. Stewart of the Board of Equalization warned against any attempt to use old age pensions as a subterfuge for extravagance.

SEES INFLATION A SLOW PROCESS

A Real Danger for the Future, Col. Ayres Tells Banking Groups.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J.—Present prospects do not indicate that inflation severe enough to cause further dollar devaluation will come soon in this country, but as an ultimate development it seems to be a very real danger, Leonard P. Ayres, Vice President Cleveland Trust Company, said here tonight in an address before the Graduate School of Banking. He believed this statement to be true "unless the government enters frankly upon a policy of issuing fiat money with which to meet its expenses." At present that does not seem to be in sight, he said.

The Graduate School is operated jointly by the American Institute of Banking Section of the American Bankers Association and Rutgers University to offer advanced studies for bank officers.

"We have so enormously increased the capacity of our banking system for credit expansion that it is difficult to see how we could have a vigorous business revival without having it develop into a credit inflation," Colonel Ayres declared.

Inflation a Slow Process

If inflation does come it will be a slow process, he said, pointing out that in Germany, France, Belgium and Italy it took about five years to develop from the time when the governments entered upon policies of financing large peace-time deficits by bank credit up to the time when the public generally began to spend money rapidly because of fear that it would still further depreciate.

"If we are to go through such a period here it would seem likely that it might last rather longer than the corresponding periods did abroad," he said. "Its beginning would date from the spring of 1933 when we left the old gold basis for our money and entered upon the policy of financing large governmental deficits by the sale of Federal securities mainly to banks rather than to private investors.

"The method that we are following is the one that proved disastrous in Europe for in all those countries including Germany, the increasing issues of money that caused the inflations were not mere printing press issues of fiat currency, but were secured by government bonds and notes discounted at the banks."

Among the clearest lessons taught by the European experience, Colonel Ayres asserted, is that there are "no good hedges against inflation." He added:

Did Not Lighten Debt Burdens

"One of the strange facts about these inflations is that while they destroyed the values of most existing debts, they did not succeed in lightening the debt burdens of either the people as a whole, or of the corporations.

"Inflation destroys the value of bonds and mortgages and so confiscates the property of these holders of obligations and hands it over to the shareholders and the equity owners. However, it introduces so many new economic difficulties that these share and equity holders are at once forced to incur new indebtedness so that when stabilization comes the problems of debt are about as troublesome as they were before, or even more so."

The five requisites of inflation were listed by Colonel Ayres as first, a period of sustained active business; second, a rising stock market; third, real credit expansion; fourth, greater out-flow of gold "than we can tolerate which would force us to cut our currency entirely free from gold"; and fifth, continued large budget deficits in government operation.

New Motor Vehicle Laws Now Enforced

With California's new Vehicle Code now in effect, motorists will find state highway patrol officers enforcing several vital laws on the statutes by this year's legislature.

Outstanding among new measures designed to reduce accidents on state highways are the following, according to Ray Ingels, director of department of motor vehicles.

1. Death as a result of an accident. If death is caused within one year after an injury, the person having driven the vehicle in a negligent manner is guilty of a felony. A sentence of one to three years in state prison is provided.

2. Intoxicated drivers. When bodily injury is caused by drivers under influence of intoxicating liquor, or when persons so driving do any act forbidden by law or neglect any duty imposed by law, drivers are guilty of a felony. A maximum sentence of five years in state prison is provided.

Any person driving a vehicle while under influence of a misdemeanor, and punishment is fixed at 30 days to six months imprisonment or by fine of $50 to $500 for the first offence.

3. Reckless driving. When bodily injuries are caused by reckless driving, the driver can be punished by county jail sentence of from 30 days to six months or by a fine of from $200 to $500, or both for the first offense.

4. Speeding. Persons arrested for speeding must prove to the court that they were traveling at a reasonable and prudent rate with regard to traffic, surface and width of the highway, and with regard to safety of persons and property.

5. Speed at intersection. When a driver does not have a clear and unobstructed view of all traffic within 100 feet approaching an intersection, the limit is 15 miles an hour. This does not apply to traffic-controlled intersections, in which, if in a business or residential district, the limit is 25 miles an hour.

6. Tow car warnings. Two warning signals must be carried by tow cars for placing on highways when giving assistance.

7. Parallel parking. Except when loading or unloading merchandise, vehicles parking on through state highways must be placed so front and rear right wheels are within 18 inches from curb or edge of road. This also makes parallel parking obligatory on all state highways within incorporated cities.

8. Warning lights for trucks. All commercial vehicles must carry two flares, red lanterns, warning lights or reflector. Such lights must be displayed 200 feet in front and rear of the vehicle when disabled at night.

9. 'Fire Signs' barred. The word "fire" or "fire department" are illegal except on display by authorized fire-fighting equipment.

10. Patrol can investigate accidents. California Highway officers are given authority to investigate accidents where bodily injury or death is involved and can gather evidence to prosecute.

"By adding to the law which gives courts the right to revoke operator licenses," said Chief E. Raymond Cato of the highway patrol. "State officers now have greater opportunity to safeguard life and property. Strict adherence to the new Code provisions has been ordered and public cooperation immediately will bring reduction in accidents."

Tanforan Session Opens October 5

With the opening of the Fall session at Tanforan only twoo weeks away interest in the racing is increasing fast up and down the coast and even in Eastern racing centers. Early arrivals at the track are showing promising training gallops and larg fields of clever runners appear to be a certainty for opening day Saturday, October 5th.

Watchers of the "work-outs" are enthusing about the way the gallopers from various sections are going along in their preparations for actual competition. Especial attention is being given by the clocking brigade to the high class performers that came here in the Major Austin Taylor stable. Interest is also shown in runners sent from many other stables.

There will be a sweepstakes at Tanforan on each of the Saturdays of the period of sport and also on get a way day, Monday, November 11, which should be one of the biggest days of the meeting on account of falling on the celebration of the Armistice.

On the opening day the feature will be at A. B. Spreckels Handicap which is expected to attract all the best horses in training. The race is named in honor of the memory of the noted California breeder, who sent the home-bred Morvich and other good horses to the East.

Farmers Convention In Sacramento In December

The sixty-eighth California fruit growers and farmers convention will be held in Sacramento, December 4, 5 and 6, announced State Director of Agriculture A. A. Brock.

In selecting Sacramento as the convention city, the director followed the established practice of alternating the conclave annually between northern and southern California. Last year the convention was held in Riverside.

Because of the keen interest in many agricultural matters, particularly new federal and state legislation regarding marketing, the Sacramento convention is expected to draw a large attendance.

Director Brock is now outlining the program which will include a number of outstanding federal, state and farm leaders in agriculture, as well as growers themselves.

The convention is one of the best known established gatherings of western agriculture. In the early days of California's farming and fruit growing development, many of the practices and policies which played an important part in California's agricultural advances originated in discussions and reports made at the fruit conventions.

Mr. and Mrs. Wfl C. Allred of Green Forest, Kansas, will enjoy California climate for the next several months and have taken the Houck cottage at 1150 Chestnut sreet.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Shivel of Tulsa, Oklahoma, have rented the Bachman duplex apartment at 1357 High way.

Will Aid Ethiopia

Dr. Arthur Torrance of Los Angeles has offered to help Ethiopia start a Red Cross unit and an army medical corps. Dr. Torrance is an expert on tropical diseases.

Correction Needed

It might be well to point out again the great danger and menace to life and limb that exists at the entrance and exit to the new Maloney Building on the highway. There were four signs erected, two at the entrance and two at the exit, to the building, which is setback from the highway.. Two of these signs, one at the entrance and one at the exit, have been knocked down and not replaced.

These signs were paid for and the California State Automobile Association erected them. If the Association were notified that they were down they would be replaced. They were paid for, why not have them to look at anyway.

The motoring public have never paid much attention to these signs, going in and out at both ends. We are of the opinion that the signs should be obeyed and that those who do not do so should be arrested just the same as any other traffic violator, and that a suitable penalty be inflicted on the offender.

If this matter is not taken up and the proper precautions taken some one will be seriously injured or killed, and them there will be a big damage suit, with every prospect of the complainant receiving the desicion of the court.

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure!

Let's get the signs back and have the police department see that they are obeyed. This will save both the city, the property owner and the motorist much in the way of trouble, worry and expense.

Community Thinking

Newspaper advertising today offers golden opportunity to those who promote it carefully and correctly.

Today even children turn eagerly from the comic pages to certain advertisements. Why? . . . Simply because the kids find romance, drama, colorful news or humor in the ads.

Never in the history of newspaper advertising has romance, glamour, colorful news or humor so dominated the selling message. Never has so much of it been packed into the column inch by alert copywriters.

As long as newspaper advertisers continue to offer real news, romance and thrills in their copy advertising will continue to be as important to the readers as the day's news.

No longer do we hear readers remark, "Don't pay any attention to that; it's only an ad." Rather "Let's buy one of those; the ad states they're reasonable and we certainly need one.' The ad proved it!

Promote your newspaper advertising campaigns as you would a show. Give them atmosphere, colorful appeal. The good advertiser is a good showman. He gives the public what it wants, without bunk, and yet plenty of entertaining features—and the public loves it and responds enthusiastically to the announcements.

You business men who are not advertising in the newspaper are missing a great bet. Inject a little romance, thrill and humor into your business through newspaper advertising and secure greater profits, and what is equally important, an unlimited amount of good will among our readers.

In The Road By the Side of a Friend

'Tis only a half truth the poet has sung
Of the house by the side of the way;
Cur Master had neither a house nor a home,
But he walked with the crowd day by day.
And I think, when I read the poet's desire,
That the house by the road would be good,
But the service is found in its tendered form,
When we walk with the crowd in the road.

So I say, let me walk with the men in the road,
Let me seek out the burden that crush,
Let me speak a kind word of good cheer to the weak,
Who are falling behind in the rush.
There are wounds to be healed, there are breaks we must mend,
There's a cup of cold water to give;
And the man in the road by the side of his friend,
Is the man who has learned how to live.

Then tell me no more of the house by the road,
There is only one place I can live,
It's there with the men who are toiling along,
Who are needing the cheer I can give.
It is pleasant to live in the house by the way,
And befriend, as the poet has said,
But the Master is bidding us, "bear ye their load,
For your rest waiteth yonder ahead."

I could not remain in the house by the road,
And watch as the toilers go on,
Their faces beclouded with pain and with sin,
So burdened; their strength nearly gone.
I'll go to their side; I'll speak in good cheer,
I'll help them carry their load,
And I'll smile at the man in the house by the way,
As I walk with the crowd in the road.

Out there in the road that goes by the house,
Where the poet is singing his song,
I'll walk and I'll work midst the heat of the day,
And I'll help falling brothers along.
Too busy to live in the house by the way,
Too happy for such an abode,
And my heart sings its praise to the Master of all
Who is helping me serve in the road.

CAPITOL COMMENT

ONE MAN'S OPINION
By Graham Berry
Recorder Correspondent at Sacramento

The depression is not over yet.

Thus ruled Superior Judge Emmet H. Wilson at a recent Los Angeles trial in which he upheld California's Mortgage Moratorium Act. Said the Judge: "economic conditions have not been ameliorated to such an extent that the moratorium act can be set aside."

During the past few months, the courts have won public approval by dipping into politics and declaring unconstitutional certain state and federal laws. They have received headlines and plaudits for checking the alleged political centralization of power, by a show of their own power in constitutionality tests.

But when the judiciary becomes economics-minded and declares the depression is not over yet, isn't that carrying the court's power just a little too far?

This jumbled beginning is by way of introducing a brief discussion on the confusing topic of constitutionality. Never before in a two-year period has the legality of so many laws been challenged or the laws been found so full of loopholes.

What's the matter? Does the trouble lie with the courts or with the makers of the laws?

Most of the legislators who write up the bills are lawyers. In the last session of the California legislature, 27 of the 80 assemblymen were lawyers and attorneys.

The number of unconstitutional laws written by our legal experts has prompted Senator Herbert W. Slater to suggest that the attorney general check legality of legislative bills enacted at future sessions. The check would not prevent the measures from being tested by the courts, but the number of unconstitutionality rulings would drop.

The inimitable Will Rogers penned a choice paragraph on this subject:

"The minute you read something and you can't understand it, you can almost be sure that it was drawn up by a lawyer. Then if you give it to another lawyer to read and he don't know just what it means, why then you can be sure it was drawn up by a lawyer. A lawyer writes so that endless others of his craft can make a living out of trying to figure out what he said."

On the other side of the constitutionality picture are the courts. Not since the days of the Civil War have they figured so prominently in politics. Although there has been some criticism of their conservative decisions, approbation has predominated.

While alphabet entanglements have been falling in broken, unconstitutional bits around the heads of New Dealers as a result of court activities, the national administration has gained some consolation from a paragraph in Abraham Lincoln's second inaugural address:

"The candid citizen must confess that if the policy of the government upon vital questions affecting the whole people is to be irrevocably fixed by decisions of the Supreme Court, the instant they are made in ordinary litigation between parties by personal actions, the people will have ceased to be their own rulers, having to that extent practically resigned their government into the hands of that eminent tribunal."

It has even been said that the courts, today, are actualy making laws by their interpretations of legislation. They have been accused of usurping legislative power.

Aunt Martha Says:

Aunt Jerushy was a smart old woman. I remember what she used to say about apples. She said there was two ways to grow old. You can take your choice if you began in time. You could either get sour or get mellow just like the apples left on the tree. She used to say too that one sour apple could spoil a whole barrel of good apples if it was too close to them.

You know, I believe I'll make a nice apple pie for Lem's supper tonight and then come up easy on to the subject of Aunt Jerushy and the apples.

I realize more and more how hard it is to stay sweet around sour folks. I won't mentio nany names either. And I hope Lem won't!

BEANS

A National Institution

WE always think of beans, especially baked beans, as a vegetable which reaches its apotheosis in New England and which would probably speak, if it had a voice, with a Yankee twang. As a matter of fact, it is a good, hearty, nourishing vegetable not only full of protein, starch and iron but with bean enough to answer your wants in several tongues. These include the Latin languages spoken in Mexico, Italy and Spain. There are not many better bean dishes, for instance, than these

Mexican Baked Beans

Fry sixteen rashers of bacon, and remove to platter to keep hot. Pour off all but about six tablespoons of the fat. Add two diced onions, and sauté them till golden brown. Add the contents of two No. 2 cans baked beans and two teaspoons chili powder. Heat thoroughly. Add salt to taste, if desired. Serve the bacon on top. Serves eight.

Or, if you prefer to eat your beans in Italian fashion, with a little spaghetti, try these

Lima Beans Italienne

Dice four slices of bacon, and fry them to extract fat. Add one chopped onion, one green pepper, cut in rings, and two cups diced celery, and sauté all gently until brown. Add the liquid from a No. 2 can lima beans, and simmer until celery and green pepper are tender. Then add two cups canned tomato pulp and the beans, and heat well. Pour in center of platter and surround with boiled spaghetti. (You will use about a quarter of a package.) Serve as a main dish with quince jelly. Serves eight.

Spanish Lima Beans

Dice two long slices bacon, chop one small onion and fry together. Add one diced canned pimiento and the drained lima beans from a No. 2 can. Season to taste with salt and pepper and pour into a buttered baking dish. Add enough bean liquor to moisten (about half a cup), and place in a hot oven until brown on top. Serves six.*

THE WORK OF CREDIT

How a bank loan portfolio presents a graphic cross section picture of the business of its community is disclosed by the description which a midwestern bank recently gave of its loans to customers. It revealed also how closely interwoven with its neighbors' varied lives are the threads of the bank's financial helpfulness.

This description showed that the bank had made a loan of $100,000 to a local shoe manufacturer to purchase materials, discount bills and meet current requirements.

To a wholesale grocer $95,000 had been advanced for the purchase of inventory, the loan to be repaid over a period in accordance with specified terms set forth in the loan agreement.

Assistance in Personal Matters

Another loan had been made to a home owner to the amount of $200 for painting and repairing. This was made in cooperation with the Federal Housing Administration and was being repaid in twenty-four monthly installments of $8.33 each.

A dentist had been loaned $300 to purchase new equipment. He was paying off the debt out of his professional earnings as they came in.

To a large domestic refrigerator distributor $30,000 had been granted on warehouse receipts to finance dealer shipments.

A home owner had been granted a $3,000 mortgage loan to be repaid in three years.

One thousand dollars had been advanced to an office worker on the cash surrender value of his insurance policy to aid him in meeting an emergency.

The National Total

If each of these various examples were multiplied many times the result would represent the total volume of credit cooperation which the bank was extending to its neighbors in its community, for aggregate loans to all its customers amounted to more than twelve million dollars.

If the typical examples here given were multiplied by many millions of times the result would represent the total economic cooperation which the banking system of the country as a whole is extending to aid the innumerable personal, professional, industrial and commercial activities which make up the whole business life of the nation. The nationwide total of such loans is in excess of 20 billion dollars.

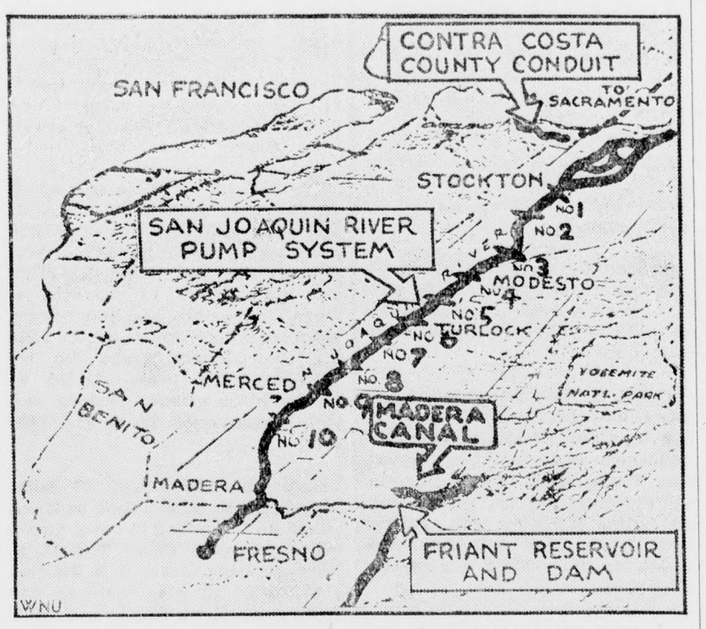
PRESIDENT APPROVES PROJECT



With President Roosevelt's approval of a $20,000,000 allotment for California's $170,000,000 Central Valleys Water Project, work is expected to start on the long-fought-for series of dams as soon as Dr. Elwood Mead, commissioner of reclamation, completes inspection of the plans. The above map shows the Friant Dam site on the San Joaquin River. Dr. Mead favors constructing this $14,000,000 project first.

Presaging complete liquidation of California's transient relief program by November 1, instructions have been issued by state WPA administrator Frank Y. McLaughlin that no persons shall be accepted for transient service after September 20.

McLaughlin's orders were based on announcement from Washington that the special transient fund will be depleted by that date. Transients already sheltered in camps throughout the state and who are registered prior to August 1 are expected to be absorbed on WPA projects which will be launched as a part of the $4,000,000,000 Federal work program.

Pretty 21-year-old waitress at San Diego's Fair, who as winner of second prize in a "Miss Exposition" contest, was given a minor part in one of the talkies being filmed daily at the fair. She played her part so well that exposition officials have interested themselves in her career.

TWO QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Why is it that one farmer raises 100 bushels of corn to the acre, and the other one, on the other side of the fence, raises 25 bushels to the acre? Why is it that one farmer produces 100 pounds of pork on five bushels of corn, and another uses 25 bushels? Not until power machinery, scientific principles of soil fertilization and restoration, rotation of crops, diversification of crops and economical feeding are applied to the farm, will the farmers' problem be solved, says an authority.

BANKERS SUPPORT FARM COMMISSION

The Agricultural Commission of the American Bankers Association is promoting widely among bankers the practice of aiding their farm customers in installing on their farms better financial, accounting and operating methods. It also cooperates in the endeavors of the state bankers' associations along similar lines.

The commission has published a book on "Making Farm Investments Safe," presenting a compendium of helpful material published over a period of years as a reference guide in the daily routine of banking and farming relationships. It has also published "Factors Affecting Farm Credit," discussing in an illustrative way how farm credit can be obtained on a sound basis.

Another publication is the monthly Bulletin of the commission which circulates to about 10,000 persons, among them the county agents throughout the United States, who make frequent use of the material and suggestions prepared by the commission. Likewise, the commission has appointed 2,300 key bankers covering every county in the United States, who act as focal points in their districts in fostering better understanding between bankers and farmers.

The happy song of prisoners didn't quite drown a rasping sound. Night Jailer H. Liston of the Santa Clara County Jail investigated. He saw 80 prisoners in the main tank making music. High overhead was Prisoner Joseph Burgess, sawing the last bar from the skylight. Also in the jail, but in a private cell was David Lamson, whose third wife-murder trial starts September 23.

Quick Drinks

Juicy Health

HEALTH insurance comes in fruits. They not only taste good and stimulate the appetite, but they are dietetically important as sources of mineral elements and vitamins. The modern generation wants to do things quick. They're all very busy at what interests them, and they want to drink down their health at one gulp.

Fortunately for them there is a way in which they can imbibe health from fruits, if not in one gulp, at least in a series of rapid sips. That is by drinking fruit juices. And another fortunate circumstance is that they don't even have to spend the time to squeeze the fruits because the best of grapefruit juice, pineapple juice and prune juice comes, already squeezed, in cans.

Summer Drinks

Prunade: Boil one-third cup sugar and two cups water together five minutes; then cool. Add the juice of eight limes, one cup canned pineapple syrup, one cup canned prune juice and three cups cold water. Serve very cold in punch glasses. This recipe makes from twelve to fifteen punch glasses which will disappear as if by magic.

And here's another summer drink which doesn't take any longer to prepare and deserves its name.

Citric Delight: Boil three-fourths cup sugar and one cup water five minutes; then cool. Add the contents of an 11-ounce can grapefruit juice, one cup orange juice, one-fourth cup lemon juice and four cups cold water (charged, if desired). Serve very cold. This makes fifteen punch glasses.*

Block-and-Tackle Boys Taking Up Knitting---But It Was a Wager

From fumbling footballs to dropping stitches may seem a far cry, but not so for the brawny block-and-tackle boys at Menlo Junior college.

Of course, the fact that pretty Miss Audrey Mellen is teaching homemaking and this and that may have something to do with it, but anyhow, the boys are taking up (brace yourself, Horatio) knitting! And they aren't even decently embarassed about it.

It seems that a couple of gridiron squad's leading lights and chief exponents of legalized mayhem bet Miss Mellen she couldn't knit a sweater (for herself) within a month. They lost, and under the terms of the wager, now find themselves pledged to take up knitting themselves. Miss Mellen said she would help out, which made everthing just ducky.

If he wasn't so big, it might be just too bad around the Menlo campus for Halfback George Dirks, but as it is, he can get away with this: "It's fun," quoth George, "In these days when men have to do most of the housework, you never know when a knowledge of knitting will come in handy."

Pfaff says it isn't as easy as it looks. "I'm always getting tangled up in my yarn," he announced.

Meanwhile it's knit two, purl one for the football squad. The coaches are just wondering what's apt to happen to them next.—Redwood City Standard, Friday, Sept. 13, 1935.
